

CONTENTS

Editorial	243
The McDonaldization of Psychotherapy? Michael R. Montgomery	244
Thrownness, Freedom And The Will For Authenticity: An Existential/ Developmental Approach to Psychotherapy Evgenia Georganda	261
To 'Be' or to 'Do': Is that the Question? John Pollard	277
Philosophy and Identity: The Relationship Between Choice of Existential Orientation and Therapists' Sense of Self Vicki Smith, Dawn Leeming & Viv Burr	287
Relatedness – Contextualising Being and Doing in Existential Therapy Ernesto Spinelli	303
Embodied Democracy Greg Madison	330
Open Dialogue: An Applied Laingian Practice Monica Lawson	339
Why Process Is (Almost) Everything Manu Bazzano	352
Persecutory Delusions: A False, Meaningless Pathology? A critique of the use of psychopathological conceptualisations of paranoia in Counselling Psychology practice Rachel Osborne	357
Trauma Theory and Chinese Antiquity Yiju Huang	369
The Role of Existential Therapy In The Prevention of Social Media-Driven Anxiety Amir Adam Tarsha	382
Reflections Around The Existential Therapy-World Yaqui Andrés Martínez Robles	389
Alone and Together With Myself: How Do We Experience Solitude? Emma Jackson	406
A response to 'Life And Death – A Meditation' Susanna Rennie and Ernesto Spinelli, Existential Analysis 27.1, Journal of The Society for Existential Analysis Diana Mitchell	419
Book Reviews	422